

April 3 2016 MAI-CoC Webinar
Peer-to-Peer Support Services in Integrated Care Settings
Presenter Bio's

Jake Bowling, M.S.W.
Assistant Vice President, Practice Improvement
National Council for Behavioral Health
Washington, D.C.

Jake Bowling brings nearly 10 years' experience in direct service, administration, clinical supervision, and program development. In his current role, Jake provides strategic oversight for a large portfolio of practice improvement initiatives, including serving as the director for the Reducing Adolescent Substance Abuse Initiative and the Addressing Opioid Epidemic Medicaid Directors Learning Community. Jake also served as the previous technical assistance task lead for technical assistance for the Minority AIDS Initiative Continuum of Care grantees through the SAMHSA-HRSA Center for Integrated Health Solutions (CIHS). Informed by his lived experience and his work leading peer teams, Jake champions the integration of peers across the health care continuum and the promotion of recovery-oriented principles and practices. He specializes in organizational change management, workflow redesign, peer workforce, SBIRT (screening, brief intervention, and referral to treatment), health care reform, and supervision and leadership. Prior to his role at the National Council, Jake served in various clinical and leadership roles, including work as an adolescent therapist, psychosocial rehabilitation specialist, homeless outreach worker, supervisor of an integrated care peer support team, and director of a health care navigation program.

Jenniffer Braddock
University of Colorado
Addiction Research & Treatment Services (ARTS)
Project REACH Coordinator
Denver, CO

Jenniffer Braddock is the Project Coordinator for the MAI-COC, SAMHSA funded, Risk Education for At-Risk Communities on HIV/AIDS ACH with the University of Colorado, Addiction Research Treatment Services (ARTS), Innovative Recovery Clinic (IRC). Jenniffer's past work experience includes coordinating project partners, working with community stakeholders, and directing the data collection and program evaluation on a multitude of federal and state block funded grants.

Emma Maki-Gianani M.S.S., B.S.N., R.N., CACIII
Medical Case Manager
University of Colorado
Addiction Research Treatment Services
Innovative Recovery Clinic
Denver, CO

Emma Maki-Gianani is a Medical Case Manager with the University of Colorado, Addiction Research Treatment Services (ARTS), Innovative Recovery Clinic (IRC). Emma screens, assesses, and ensures appropriate patient care through coordination, collaboration, and communication with patients, staff, and outside providers. Through Project REACH (Risk Education for At-Risk Communities on HIV/AIDS), she provides patients with medical case management, infectious disease prevention education, testing, and pre/post-test counseling. Emma's work history includes working as a therapist in adult outpatient and residential treatment facilities, DUI/DWAI group educator and therapist, a nurse and therapist in an adolescent day treatment and outpatient program, a tobacco treatment specialist, and as a researcher in various studies with an emphasis on alcohol and drug education, intervention, and prevention.

Janice Greenwood
Peer Educator
University of Colorado
Addiction Research Treatment Services
Innovative Recovery Clinic
Denver, CO

Janice Greenwood is a Peer Educator with the University of Colorado, Addiction Research Treatment Services (ARTS), Innovative Recovery Clinic (IRC). Janice has been in recovery for 11 years and uses her lived experience of recovery from addiction to deliver peer services to the patients promoting mind-body recovery and resiliency. Janice's work experience includes working as a Certified Nurses Aid, a Peer Support Group facilitator in an adult outpatient and case management facility, and providing outreach to those in incarceration.